Men Return to Work At Six British Mines

BARNESLEY, Yorkshire, England, Sept. 10. — (CP) — "Flying squads" of local members of parliament and spokesmen for the National Union of Mineworkers touring the disaffected areas of the Yorkshire coalfields said early today that they persuaded men from six mines to return to work — but 42 pits, including the storm-torn Grimsbrough, were still inactive.

Loss of coal through the dispute began Aug. 11 when workers at the Grimsbrough colliery refused to increase their daily output to 4,500 tons as the National Coal Board and the NUM. The loss now is estimated near 30,000 tons. About 4,500 miners are still out in support of the Grimsbrough picket line. Picketing is making "personal appeal" to the workers and hastening from meeting to meeting by automobile helped to swing Grimsbrough's opinion possibly late today. But the workers there already have turned down appeals from union chiefs and apparently have turned a deaf ear to statements that the strike may damage the life of the Labour government.

Meanwhile from Whitehall, it was reported the government planned to take immediate further action to attempt to end the stoppage. Considering the dispute has been settled by the union and strikers themselves.

The temper of the Grimsbrough pickets, described by Post Minister Kinnear, last week as "very noisy," did not improve when they learned 600 of their fellow miners had to pay 11 shillings weekly instead of 16 at orders by the national coal board.

rejection of the Marshall plan. PROF. SWILL, a spokesman for a "feasible hypothesis" that the Russian attitude toward the atom bomb and Russian research which has prevented agreement in the U.S. atomic energy commission, based upon "ignorance of its significance."

He suggests that Russian delegates do not tell the Kremlin high command the whole truth about the possibilities of atomic energy and express confidence that national policy has prevented the high command letting the Russian people know what atomic energy implies but its part in bringing about "surrender." The "yes-men" in the Soviet Union told their superiors "only that they believe their superiors would prefer to hear about the bomb."

HE SAID the Russian ruling group should be made to see that "their own well being and security" depends on an agreement for effective control of atomic energy.

Mission Society Meets Urges Indian Bishops At Anglican Synod

SASKATON, Sept. 10. — (CP) — The Church of England should think in terms of appointing its first Indian bishop, a joint session of the executive council and board of management of the Missionary Society was told yesterday.

The suggestion came from Canon C. D. Davis, clerical representative of the diocese of Ontario during a discussion of the work of the church among Indians.

Said Canon Davis: "We have been working on the Indian for a long time, but we have not been able to get a field secretary. We hope we will hesitate over the appointment of a field secretary."

Trochu Girl Wed

In Home Ceremony

TROCHU, Sept. 10.—An afternoon wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fidler recently when their daughter, Eva Lillian, became the bride of Arthur William Williams, son of Mr. A. Williams and the late Mrs. Williams of Millerville, Alberta. The Rev. A. T. Young performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the ceremony was performed under an arch decorated with pink and white streamers. Wedding bells and pink sweet peas and banded with autumn flowers.

During the signing of the register, Miss Joyce Richardson played "I Love You Truly."

The bride was attired in a sandy-green girdle and wore a matching head dress and corsage of gardenias and red roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Jessie Robertson of Edmonton, wore a turquoise blue suit with corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom was attended by Ralph Findlay, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a gown of white printed jersey and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A buffet lunch was served from a table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests included: A. Williams of Millerville, Mrs. J. Williams, Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. J. Findlay of Vulcan.

The couple left on a motor trip to Banff and other southern Alberta points and later will make their home in Edmonton.

Also lost in the fire was 86 in. Forty-five dollars of the remainder by her sister, Yvonne L. Marchand, who was residing with Mrs. Smith. Mr. Smith, a CNR porter, was put out at the time of the fire.

Mr. Smith told police she was cooking supper and had left the house for a few moments to visit her uncle. While she was there, the house leaked out the window and saw flames shooting from the window of the Smith's home.

The house itself suffered damage to the walls and ceiling but was not burned down. Firemen from Halls Nos. 2 and 8 responded and used one line of hose to extinguish the fire.

Included in the agencies lost by fire were a radio, sewing machine, baby's crib, all clothing and personal belongings.

But most attention centred on the turbine model.

Gloucester Aircraft Meteor IV, a single-engine fighter with two Rolls Royce Daimler turbojet engines. It is the same clipped-wing model which British built the world speed record until the United States set a new mark recently.

The Havilland Vampire, a single-engine fighter with a single Havilland Goblin turbojet engine. The Havilland DH 108, a high-speed research plane with sharply swept-back wings.

The Vickers-Armstrong's new attack, a single-engine fighter with a Rolls Royce Nene turbojet engine mounted amidships behind the cockpit.

Senior officers of the RCAF overseas establishment were among the thousands who sat for two hours on a parking strip in front of the hangars to watch the flying display.

The only Commonwealth-built plane on display was the Havilland Canadian-built Chipmunk, a two-seat trainer and fighter, powered with a single conventional propeller major engine.

Begin Screening Jewish Refugees

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
HAMBURG, Sept. 10.—(AP)—European Jews of the Exodus 1947, who began a fruitless search for Palestine just two months ago when they were displaced persons camps, are undergoing screening to determine their final disposition.

Some were reported on a larger scale to determine their British citizenship.

Reports from various sources indicated that the 4,311 refugees forcibly unloaded this week from a transport convoy that brought them here from the Holy Land were scattered among the displaced persons camps near Luebeck and a Hamburg jail.

Special British laws already in effect in an effort to limit their numbers of origin so that they could be returned to their countries of origin so that they would be welcomed to the land.

Some of the officials said the terms would be used to separate confirmed Zionists and "ringleaders" of resistance groups.

Room Prowlers Active in City

During the last week many room prowler activities have been reported to city police by persons who have lost varying amounts of money.

Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday night, many more reports were received by the police department. Hedley V. Ross, of a city hotel, reported that a woman had come to his room on Sunday morning when he awoke this morning he found the door of his room slightly ajar and his trousers hanging on the floor near the door. His loss amounted to $150.

Youth Training

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 10.—(CP)—A ten-point program of remedial measures to overcome "our cultural misfits with modern youth" was outlined Monday by A. A. Pigott, director of Kiwanis, in an address before a Kiwanis conference luncheon here.

Before delegates attending the Western Canada convention of Kiwanis, Mr. Pigott said youth misfits are certain to complicate society in which they found themselves "but they have to take it over."

His suggestions were: Recreation

Stress Necessity Of Chimney Check

Home-owners neglecting roofs this fall should not forget to give their chimneys a good check over. Chimneys may either be masonry-made or a better expense to the household budget, as a great deal of heat may be lost through the chimney if it is not properly constructed. Points to be remembered are—

1. Chimneys should be straight, but where a bend is necessary the joint should be gradual.
2. A flue should serve only one source of heat. Two or three openings in a flue spoil draft efficiency and deprive the house of needed heat.
3. Flues should be lined with terra cotta. Make sure it is the proper size.
4. Chimneys built inside the house seem to draw better, and have the advantage that they transmit a certain amount of heat through the brickwork.
5. If joints in the masonry of the chimney have been opened up one source of heat, they should be repaired and completely sealed with mortar.
6. If chimney tops are broken, wires are likely to slip through the crack into brickwork below and will eventually freeze, damaging the brick, cutting down the chimney's efficiency and having the roof exposed to fire hazard which will be especially dangerous if the roof is not covered with fire resistant material.

Begins School With Artificial Arms

Charles Fisk, five, who lost both arms 11 months ago when he fell from a horse into the path of a haymower, started school this year in the first grade of St. Anne's elementary school in Kent County, near Rockford, Mich. Mrs. Katherine Harris, teacher, inspects Charles's class work as Donald Carter (right) a pupil, looks on.

Turn, Italy, is to produce a joint Italo-French motion picture, French stars collaborating with their counterparts in Italy, thus making the film adaptable for both France and Italy and their colonies.

Antique Glazing Becomes Popular

Antique glazing of furniture is becoming popular in many homes, particularly where light and cheery effects are wanted.

Using only linseed oil, a few pigments or ordinary oil paint, and shellac, many Canadian householders have become experts in this old craft, which produces beautiful tones not only on sun-room, porch, kitchen or nursery, chairs and tables but also on more solid-looking furniture.

Best results are usually obtained by mixing linseed oil with burnt sienna or burnt umber. The muddy solution is then smeared over the surface of the furniture and wiped with a clean rag or a piece of cheese cloth, leaving sufficient color to light up exposed surfaces and give deeper tones in corners or crevices. One or two coats of a thin white shellac are applied after the desired tone has been allowed to dry.

The appearance of both wood and wicker furniture can be improved and charming effects be produced by rubbing in a little contrasting color after a coat of white shellac has been applied.

After a colony of wasps were destroyed by a child at Ballyvaughan, the entire swarm followed the boy to a gypsy camp and stung many men, women and children during a battle lasting over an hour.
